

For Freedom and Democracy

As an international group of companies with German roots, we as the Oetker Collection, together with our Group companies, stand for freedom and democracy. With over 8,450 employees in 39 countries, appreciative and respectful collaboration is a cultural prerequisite for our joint work.

With our company headquarters in the heart of a free Europe, we stand up for human dignity, democracy, the rule of law, a market economy and entrepreneurial action. These shared fundamental values must be protected and defended against interference from within and outside in the form of populism, extremism and assaults of any kind. Our responsibility as a family business and the values we live by and trust in form the common guideline for our actions.